Zone A covers 32 rai for a Smart Business Complex that will open for private sector bidding this year for its development.

Bang Sue Grand Station in Chatuchak, Bangkok, will be Thailand's new railway hub. It will replace the current Bangkok Railway Station at Hua Lamphong as the terminus for all long-distance rail services from Bangkok.

Projects ranging from commercial buildings and a sports complex to an international exhibition centre and residential estates are in the ambitious plans for the 2,325-rai site.

Bang Sue Grand Station will become a new central business district (CBD) in Bangkok. The station will be a key link in Bangkok's mass transit system. It will serve existing rail systems such as BTS Skytrain, the MRT, and the Airport Rail Link as well as the 10 new rail systems to come and three high speed routes: Bangkok-Nong

Kai, Bangkok-Chiang Mai, and the high speed service linking the Suvarnabhumi, Don Muang, and U-Tapao international airports.

The first phase entails the development of Bang Sue Grand Station and commercial and office buildings integrated with the transport system from 2017 to 2024. The second phase will develop a centre to serve the meetings, incentives, conferences and exhibition (MICE) sector, a sports complex, and retail, office and residential projects around the station from 2024 to 2029. Under the third phase, more housing projects will be built from 2029 to 2031.
